PACIFIC COLLEGE, NEWBERG, OREGON

MONDAY, FEB. 12, 1945

X-Ray Unit Will Be In Newberg Feb. 19 to 21

College Students May Have Free X-Rays Feb. 20

On February 19 and through the 21, the mobile x-ray survey unit will be in Newberg. The location of the unit will be the Palmer Garage, opposite the Cameo theatre.

Mrs. Ethel Palmer, county chairman of the project explained that by taking these x-rays, early cases could be found when there are no visible symptoms, thereby cutting down the cost of hospitalization.

Built into the truck body of the unit are the dressing rooms, the x-ray machine, and the developing rooms for the films. Also incorporated within the unit are a ventilating and heating system.

February 19 has been scheduled for industrial workers; the 20th for schools and civic organizations, and the 21st for individuals and family groups.

Mrs. Palmer stressed that appointments are not necessary but registration of those wishing x-rays, is desired.

Pres. Gulley Visits in Medford and Talent

President Emmett W. Gulley returned last Monday, February 5, from a week-end trip to Medford and Talent, Oregon, where he met many graduates and friends of Pacific college. Mr. Gulley left Newberg February 2.

Mr. Gulley attended a P. C. Rally held Saturday night, at which time all the friends of Pacific got together to discuss the college and catch up on the latest news. Sunday morning he spoke at the Medford Friends church, an outpost work being carried on by Milo Ross. Sunday afternoon he spoke at the Brethren church in Medford, pastored by Stanley Keller, Pacific alumnus in the class of '40.

Mr. Gulley also saw George and Elenita Bales, P. C. grads now carrying on at outpost work at Talent, Oregon. Other graduates and former students he met include Carl and Winifred Sandoz, class of '34 and '33, Chseter Weed, and Marjorie Brown Votow, class of '21.

Y. M. Board Meetings At Pacific Last Week

Mid-year board meetings of Oregon Yearly Meeting were held last week at Pacific college beginning Tuesday and continuing through Thursday.

Boards which met include the Missionary Board of which Lloyd S. Cressman is chairman, the Evangelistic Board with Gervas Carey, chairman, the Northwest Friends Service Committee, the Publication Board, the Board for Aged Ministers and Missionaries, and the Executive committee for the Yearly Meeting.

The Ministerial Conference of the Yearly Meeting, held at Pacific, will close today. This conference was in session also last Friday and Saturday. Ministers from over the Yearly Meeting devoted the time to studying pastoral methods and general interests of pastors.

COLLEGE BOARD STUDIES PLANS FOR NEW GYMNASIUM

Plans for Pacific's new gymnasium were studied at the meeting of the College Board of Managers held last Friday evening, according to report by President Gulley. The plans have been referred to a committee for further consideration.

CHINA MISSIONARY SPEAKS IN CLASS 4TH PERIOD TODAY

A missionary from China will speak in the Asiatic history class at fourth period this morning. Anyone who is interested in welcome to sit in on the class, it was announced last Friday.

Canteen Opening Attracts Crowd

A large crowd was present for the opening of the new "Bruin Jr. Canteen" Friday evening, February 2, in Canyon hall. The members of the Canteen committee, who acted as hosts and hostesses for the opening night, provided games and entertainment in the parlor for all those present. Games such as rook, checkers, pit, Chinese checkers, etc., were played. A few short movies provided further entertainment. Movies shown included an educational one about Canada, two comedies, and the concert pianist, Urtubi.

Short orders and ice cream were served in the dining hall of Canyon hall. This part of the canteen has been open on several succeeding evenings.

The original Canteen committee, which includes Lewis Hoskins and Mrs. Dorothy Morse, Laura Shook, Divonna Schweitzer, Vivian Miller, Nancy Lewis, Margery Cole, Louise Thornburg, Dale Parrish, Stanley Williams, and Allen Thomas, was approved and accepted by the Associated Student Body in a meeting held last Friday. Plans for financing the project were furthered also as the A. S. B. voted a loan of $25 and a plan for the selling of shares was presented by the committee. Profits from the Canteen will be divided among shareholders next spring.

Registration For Second Semester Shows Increase

Enrollment Total Nears The One-Hundred Mark

With the registration of eight new students, the local figures for enrollment at Pacific college during this school year reached one hundred, an increase of nearly one-third over last year's total, it was announced last week by Miss Mary Sutton, registrar. Several more students are expected to register late, she reported, which should run the student body list over the hundred mark.

The new courses have attracted considerable attention with large enrollments in mental hygiene, offered by Prof. George Moore, and in the night courses, home arts, taught by Mrs. Dorothy Morse, and international relations, given by Prof. Lewis Hoskins. They report that there is still opportunity to join these Thursday evening offerings by contacting the college. They are open to townspeople with or without college credit.

A full calendar of school events has been planned for the opening weeks of the new semester. Music recitals, a freshman play, a formal reception for new students, and additional entertainments under the new Bruin Jr. Canteen have been scheduled for coming weeks.

Deputation Groups Give Sunday Musical Programs

Beginning a series of informal Sunday afternoon musical get-togethers, a program was held in the Newberg Nazarene church yesterday at 2:30 p. m.

Under the direction of Prof. Roy Knight the musical groups, consisting of five vocal quartets, a vocal trio, piano duets, horn quartets, a piano quartet, readings, and many other interesting numbers were presented.

This type of informal program was presented at the Dayton Evangelical church two weeks ago and met with great response. It will be carried on every Sunday afternoon if there is no other scheduled program at that hour.

Formal Reception Will Be Next Friday Evening

The semi-annual formal reception for new students will be given by the Student Christian Union next Friday night. Miss Viola Nixon is chairman of the committee in charge.

The formal reception is given at the beginning of each semester at which new students are welcomed to Pacific and have opportunity for meeting fellow students and faculty members.

PROF. KNIGHT WILL BEGIN REVIVAL SERIES WEDNESDAY

Prof. Roy Knight will begin a series of revival meetings next Wednesday evening at the Chehalis Center Friends church. Meetings will be held each evening through February 25.

Pacific college students will provide special music and help in various ways with each service.

Oratory Contest Held This Morning

The local Peace Oratorical contest will be held at chapel period today, with three contestants participating. The winner will represent Pacific college at the state contest. Harold and Kenneth Fowler and Barbara Garrett expect to enter. The possibility of another participant was not known for certain as this paper went to press.

The state contest will be held at Oregon State college next Thursday evening. There Pacific's contestant will compete with students from Pacific university, Linfield college, Willamette university, Oregon State college, and University of Oregon. The subjects for the orations are on anything relating to peace and post-war peace plans.

The next speech events scheduled in which Pacific will participate are the practice Linfield tournament late in February and then the official tournament, March 8, 9, and 10. The Old Line oratorical contest will be held here March 26.

A. S. B. Sets Dates For Election of New Officers

Constitution Revision Comm. Submits Report

The selection of the student body election board and presentation of the schedule for elections in student body meeting last Friday set the machinery in year for the election of new student body officers.

The election schedule as set forth by President Ogier is as follows:

Fri., Feb. 9—Last day for election board by individual classes.

Mon., Feb. 12 to Wed., Feb. 21—Opportunity to circulate petitions for major offices.

Wed., Feb. 21—Primary elections of major officers.

Thurs., Feb. 22 to Mon., March 5—Opportunity for campaigning.

Mon., March 5—General elections of major officers.

Mon., March 12—Last day for selections of candidates of minor officers by Student Council.

Fri., March 16—Opportunity for selection of additional candidates by the student body in A. S. B. meeting.

Mon., March 19—Election of minor officers.

Fri., March 23—Installation of all new officers.

Major offices in the Associated Student Body include: President, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, chief treasurer, Crescent editor, and L'Ami editor. Petitions must be signed by at least 25 per cent of the members of the Associated Student Body.

Members of the election board are: Evangelyn Shattuck, Gloria Newall, Quincy Fodge, and Mildred Lowen.

Revision Committee Reports

The A. S. B. constitution revision committee headed by Evangelyn Shattuck and made up of Laura Shook, Barbara Garrett, Viola Nixon, Roger Minthorne, and Lewis Hoskins, has submitted the following report:

"Due to feeling that our present A. S. B. constitution is inadequate the committee appointed to revise the constitution has considered the various divisions of the present constitution and has read constitutions from other schools of comparable size to determine changes and revisions which need to be made.

"Some of these items follow, and any student body or faculty member who has opinions on these or other suggestions is invited to express them to the committee.

"In Article II, the stated student affairs fee is an error—the actual amount paid being $6 (Continued on page four)

Practices for "Messiah" Held Sunday Afternoons

Prof. Clark has announced a series of eight Sunday afternoon practices to be held in preparation for the presentation of the Easter portions of Handel's "Messiah" on Palm Sunday.

The second of these was held yesterday at 4 o'clock at the Friends church. The college choir is forming the nucleus for a choir which will include any interested singers in the community. The entire group will sing Palm Sunday afternoon.

Claude Lewis, Former Student, Writes Of CPS Work

Dear friends:

Having been away from the P. C. Campus for over two months—about as long as I can stand—I shall try to at least renew contact with you by sending this greeting from the sunny Southland. Sunny is it indeed, but if the popular concept regarding California climate is at all accurate, there has been some geographical mistake in the placing of Coleville, for the almost continuous sunshine seldom dispels the cold wind for more than a few days. The snow which always covers the surrounding mountain peaks this week again reached down into the valley. Of course, Civilian Public Service Camp 37 is at an altitude of about 6,000 feet, so we should expect snow.

Since the work in C. P. S. camps varies, may I tell you about our work projects here? Camp Antelope (the name given this camp in C. C. C. days) is a U. S. Forest Service camp, so most of the work concerns conservation of forests or grazing land within the U. S. Forests. This includes timber cruising and mensuration, logging, building roads and fire trails, reforestation, building check-dams in the valleys, mapping forest lands, electing Forest Service buildings and improving F. S. equipment, and the inevitable fire fighting during the summer fire season. At present the principle projects are the building of a road over a high pass near Mt. Antelope, logging and the operation of a saw mill, and making maps of National Forests from serial photographs. During the summer our 150 men will be scattered over an area 400 miles long, engaged principally in fire control.

My job is acting as foreman of the repair shop here, operated under the Equipment Division of the U. S. Forest Service. We have a good shop, fairly well equipped with automotive and diesel-cat tools, and excellent acetylene and electric welding equipment. We look after the machinery in this end of the forest, which includes five bulldozers (Caterpillar and A. C.), eleven trucks (one and a half to five tons), four pickups, two self-powered diesel motor graders, miscellaneous road and logging equipment—yarders, rippers, compressor, etc., and a considerable amount of repair work on the saw mill and the numerous generators and stationery engines scattered over the camp. At present, most of my work is on the cats, due to some tough going over pass. This week we had two breakdowns, both on a rocky, almost vertical mountainside, on a road barely wide enough for a cat to crawl over. The repair job was made more interesting by an approaching snow storm which necessitated some hurry. We managed to pull one cat down to the flat, but when we returned for the other, slides had covered the road so we had to carry our hand tools the last half mile, in some places literally crawling over the slides on the steep mountainside. We worked a half a day in the snow storm—the snow was a foot deep when we finished—and the cat cleared out the road on the way down. Fortunately (or unfortunately) (Continued from page 1)

Ah—at last! We have successfully navigated our little bark through the stormy and balmy days of one semester to drop anchor for a short time in the little harbor of B's—On—The—Report—Card. Here we will exchange some of the old cargo for new, and with a favorable breeze to the starboard, set sail once more upon the high seas—destination, Mortar board—On—The—Senior.

Behind us lie mistakes, small triumphs, failures and success, and having learned from them, we are more confident of good sailing weather ahead and better prepared to meet the problems that will arise.

Last semester's cruise had its squalls and calms as well as balmy days, but didn't we honestly enjoy it? We griped, and there were moments of near mutiny, but this was merely a vent for excess steam.

There were the bright moments too; and these we will take with us, remembering them long after the unpleasant farring things have been forgotten.

Sailing wather won't always be what we will want it to be, but the success of the voyage through this semester is up to you—and the course you have chosen to steer by.

The "Bruin Jr. Canteen" committee is to be commended for the swell time everyone had at the big "opener" and subsequently fun nights. The student body may be given a pat on the back too, for the way they turned out—the crowd was large in spite of the fact that many sudents were away for the week-end.

Continuance of the attitude which was apparent on the opening night will insure success for the future of the canteen. Student interest and cooperation will determine wether this plan will fill the place desired in student life on the campus. Let's continue to back the committee and help the canteen provide fun for those week-ends when there is no other scheduled activity.

Knight Holds Service at Nazarene Church Sunday

At the evening service of the Nazarene church in Newberg, Sunday evening, February 4, Prof. Roy Knight had charge of the service. Assisting him were the Ladies' Quartet composed of Patty Perisho, Betty Ann Craven, Joyce Perisho and Nancy Lewis; the Men's Quartet with Herschel Thornburg, Roy Clark, Paul Thornburg and Everett Craven.

These two groups also helped out at the opening chapel for the second semester, on Tuesday, February 6. The men played "Jesus Is Dearer Than All" on their horns accompanied by Nancy Lewis; and the Ladies' Quartet sang "Mine."

The Freshman Girls' Quartet composed of Divonna Schweitzer, Eileen Tamplin, Donna Heacock and Eleanor Swanson sang at the Sunnyside Friends in Portland, Sunday morning, February 4.

P. C. Loses Students As Semester Closes

Several outstanding students due to various reasons have left Pacific college at the close of the first semester. Three of them were members of the freshman class.

Laura Birch, freshman, is Idaho-bound. Her younger brother being drafted into the army necessitating her return home.

Another freshman is Jessie Wakefield, who was forced to leave school because of ill health.

From the same class is Mariann Paden, who is entering the field of nursing and has transferred to Seattle Pacific college.

Mary Esther Clark, a senior, has left school because of illness. She has gone to Los Angeles where she will be under the care of a doctor.

Behind the Headlines!

Extra! Extra! Read all about it! The true story of what goes on behind the headlines of your Crescent!

(P. S.—If you're expecting any juicy morsels of gossip—we'll do our best.)

Well, once upon a time—with the suddenness of an Oregon flood—I mean, shower, the realization that the news for the Crescent must be forthcoming this week came to our dear editor, and she sat down and composed the lyrics to the tune of Crescent Assignments.

Monday and Tuesday dissolved into the ether of the past, and then comes Wednesday—deadline day.

Logically only two things can happen. Either the assignments are in or they aren't. The day's gleanings may be one or two articles—or it may not.

Then—with the care and skill of a detective agency the editor and associate editor stalk their reporters, and together, they corner them, preferably one at a time.

Finally: "All right, all right—I'll have it by tomorrow, but get up off your knees, people will be staring!" I'll even write two! I'll even have them in by tomorrow! Only please don't—please don't—!"

Now don't get your hair-do all askew, it was only a threat to add a juicy bit of gossip to the "Dorm Mouse". It's really more effective than the rack.

At long last—Friday afternoon finds the two editors triumphant. Every piece of copy is at last at the Graphic being "set up." Of course there might not be enough copy, but—moron jokes always come in handy.

Ah—Saturday! While the day is still in its early youth, our brave editors, armed with glue, paper, pencils and a few ideas for headlines, go forth to do battle with the "dummy."

"Think we'll have enough copy?" "What we think, makes no difference. We don't." Consequently, a few jokes that ordinarily wouldn't see the light of day via the Crescent columns make their debuts.

Now begins the real labor "Hmm—this will fit here—so. And this one with an eighteen point headline down here—A twelve point headline here—" And so it goes—four pages of it.

"Pass me the glue thank you."

. . . . "No, that won't do, there. It's only a twelve point headline."

"Pointer, setter, or cocker spaniel it's got to fit there. There isn't any place else for it."

On arriving, exhausted and in anything but a fairy-light mood, at the back page, our editors discover that there were several pieces that won't fit "any place else but here." (Here dear readers, is a moral. Learn to juggle before you become the Crescent editor. Then when it comes to juggling headlines and articles, you'll be in practice.)

Sometime later: "Well, there it's done. How does it look? Don't answer that, I know. But it's the best we can do. Maybe next time there'll be more news, or someone will become richly endowed with ideas for features—" "My dear, why daydream. You may as well ask for a private printing shop. You'd come as near getting it."

This is nearly the end of our little story for today, boys and girls, except to say that it's a great life if you don't weaken . . . just try it sometime.

Well, happy Crescent to you!

P. C. Students Attend Inter-Varsity Meeting

How can we know the Bible documents are authentic? Dr. Aldrick, president of Multnomah Bible College, used this question as the basis of a lecture-discussion meeting of the Inter-Varsity Fellowship held February 2 in the Portland Y. W. C. A. Several of the Oregon colleges, including Pacific, were represented, and all present agreed that it was an evening worth while.

The speaker gave instances of the correlation of the Bible with literary standards, archaeological discoveries, and scientific developments of the present day—for instance: there are sixteen elements in the human body; there are sixteen elements in the "dust" of the ground. According to Biblical chronology, there were ten generations from Adam to Noah, and as recorded in the Babylonian King List there were ten kings before the flood. Facts such as these prove that the Bible is more than a mere humanly-conceived book.

A sailor just recently returned from the Solomon Islands told of the wonderful work the missionaries had done there. Those present felt it a challenge to them, as well as another proof of "The Book's" power, to learn that the Gospel Story is being preached to American men by the native Christians of the South Seas.

Donna Heacock and Charlotte Macy attended the meeting from Pacific college.

Deputation Teams Hold S.C.U. Hour Wednesday

Student deputation teams were in charge of the Student Christian Union meeting February 7. Donna Heacock, program chairman, directed the service.

Prof. Clark led the group in choruses to begin the service, after which he and Herschel Thornburg played a marimba duet, "Thou Wilt Keep Him in Perfect Peace". The ladies' quartet—Nancy Lewis, Joyce Perisho, Betty Ann Craven, Patty Perisho—continued the program with "No Longer Lonely", followed by the male quartet—Herschel Thornburg, Roy Clark, Paul Thornburg, Everett Craven—who sang two numbers, "Wonderful Peace" and "On the Jericho Road".

Prof. Clark brought a short message based on Phillipians 1:10, "... that ye may be sincere and void of offence unto the day of Christ". He brought out the importance and meaning of the word sincere and its Latin and Greek Derivations. He said that Paul wants us as Christians to be sincere, without wax or flaw, and show forth a pure life before the world.

The program continued with a girls' quartet—Divonna Schweitzer, Eileen Tamplin, Donna Heacock, Eleanor Swanson—singing "I Walked One Day Where Jesus Walked", and a male quartet—Terrell Repp, Wesley Murphy, Quincy Fodge, Bernard Landreth—who sang "One Day Nearer Home". These two groups then formed an octet and sang "Oh Happy Day". The program closed with a trio number by Margery Murphy, Colleene Bybee and Leta Hockett.

Dorm Mouse Reports

Hello, everybody. Here I am again. You can pull my ear plugs out and call me water spout, but didn't we have some rain?

The other day as I was splashing down the avenue, who should see but Roger and Mil, that amous twosome.

When I finished swimming the liver just outside the girls' dorm, whom should I chance upon but couple of Californians—a new mouth addition, Helen and Gordon.

By the way—talking about mouth additions, have you noticed some of the snazzy clothes Barbara Terrill has? They really look nice. And talking about clothes, I like Doris Davis' cute hat and sweater outfit she wears round.

What has happened to V. Miller since she saw G. Dunagan? She acts like she is walking on a pink cloud instead of sloshing through the rain and mud.

Eleanor, next time you start talking about recitals please make yourself clear. Even poor little me listening from my knothole wasn't sure what you were talking about.

I was pattering around in botany lab the other day and heard that Miss Sutton's latest idea is to plant carrot seeds and get something besides carrots. Maybe turnips, Miss Sutton?

I've found Elene Tamplin and Dean Oglevie played rook in the parlor often lately.

Guess I'd better scurry out of sight now for another two weeks. Bye.

Presenting..... New Students

By Florence Hadlock

A new semester brings several new faces to Pacific's campus. The freshman class seems to be the group which has received most of these second semester entrants.

Faces that weren't exactly new to all students were those of Marcia Janes, Ruth Vasey, and Loren Smith. All three have attended P. C. previously, or have taken classes part time. Loren has been in a C. P. S. camp in Moncos, Colo. He is being reclassified and expects to get in non-combatant service in the army medical corps. His home is in Tacoma, Wash., where his father is minister at the McKinley Friends Meeting. Marcia and Ruth are Newbergites.

Gordon St. George just graduated from high school in Maywood, Calif., and is wasting no time getting started on his theological studies at P. C. His interests center around sports—track and football mostly.

Dorothy Barratt is another mid-year high school grad who is utilizing her time by beginning college immediately. She hails from Camas, Wash. Dorothy expresses her interest in religious studies, and as a hobby participates in almost every sport.

Virginia Leffler, originally from Eugene, Ore., is completing her freshman year that was started at Linfield. She is married to Willard Leffler, graduate of Newberg high. Piano seems to be her main interest.

Dean Olgevie hopes to be able to take up theological studies here in school; he has been graduated from Greenleaf Academy for some time and has been doing farm work. As a hobby his interests center around flying, of which he has already had some elementary training.

Miss Marjorie Wohlgenuth, Pacific graduate with the class of '44, was in Newberg last week-end visiting her family and friends. Marjorie is now teaching at Grants Pass, Oregon.

To have what we want is riches;
to be able to do without is power.

Claude Lewis Writes

ately, as far as the drama of this story is concerned) the storm lasted only one night and the cats went back to work the next morning. One of them has had a minor breakdown already!

Being in a Friends C. P. S. camp is a queer—a confusing—experience, inviting many problems. At the beginning of the war, the backers of C. P. S. saw in the proposal for C. O.'s to give one hundred per cent of their time and incomes to "work of national importance" of the government's own choosing, a valuable demonstration of constructive pacifism. We assignees, after three and a half years of constant refusal by the government of permission to form overseas medical units, do medical and scientific research, etc., as we had expected to do, (at our own expense or financed by Friends), rather frequently question just how valuable our testimony is permitted to be. Of course we have preserved our personal integrity, at least to the extent that our conscientious objection to war is recognized, even if our willingness to do valuable non-military work is not; and as long as conscience, not convenience, determines our presence here, the desirability of the work, the people we are with, or the great conscriptive system of which we definitely do not approve, cannot enter as arguments in choosing between C. P. S. and military service.

I have implied nothing of the personal value of being here, and certainly do not wish to underemphasize the possibility of growth even under a conscriptive system. True, we are conscripted, which rather offends our ethical and philosophical concepts, but we are conscripted together; and togetherness is pregnant with human values. This situation produces thinking of a pretty complex and serious nature. Certainly the actual study that goes on here will have some significance. We are pledged to work for the government during the day, but at night there is a continuous cycle of classes, camp meetings, and discussions. We have classes in religion, history, philosophy, government, languages, astronomy, literature—and for every conceivable study that there is someone here capable of acting as teacher. Whereas my attitude toward war makes me willing to come here, it is the association with educated and earnest Christian men that makes being here valuable and even pleasant.

The people with whom I associate are mostly older and better educated than I. My friends include a doctor, a lawyer, a professor from Harvard, a Ph. D. from Oxford, another from Cambridge, an engineer, a concert pianist, an astronomer; one has studied all over the world and can speak eleven languages; another spent years in the Orient, and so on. Yet all wear the same work clothes, and work side by side with us relatively ignorant fellows.

This is an educational experience not often found in a group as small as the one in which I now am. Some, of course, are overcome by the relative seclusion of life in C. P. S., or by the social opposition which conscientious objectors experience in war time. Most can well be described as Edwin Sanders, a former Professor

SHOWER BY MAIL GIVEN FOR CHESTER BUMBARGERS

Several Pacific college students participated in a "shower by mail" given by Wilma Archambeau for Pvt. and Mrs. Chester Bumbarger last week-end. Gifts are to be received by Miss Archambeau today to be sent to the Bumbargers immediately. Chester and Evelyn are both former students.

Mrs. Roy Knight, treasurer, returned February 5 from Nampa, Idaho, where she spent a little over a week auditing books in a clinic where she had previously worked.

Mrs. Delmar Cloud, the former Doris Switzer, who attended school here during the previous term, spent a few days on the campus visiting last week.

Mrs. Alice Roberts returned February 5 after spending several days in Seattle visiting relatives. She was accompanied on the trip by her son, Ellis Roberts.

Cpl. Gerald Dunagan, former Pacific college student, was a campus visitor last week. He is spending a ten-day furlough visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dunagan of Springbrook.

at Pacific described a friend of his who later also joined the P. C. faculty: They are "the divinely discontented, for whom the world's darkness has cast a profound skepticism, but whose faith in God and love of the goodness in human relations will not let be unhappy.

For a simple greeting this has gone on far enough! I certainly enjoy hearing from you, or hearing of you through the Crescent and letters from my folks. I am honestly thrilled by the progress the old Alma Mater appears to be making, especially in dramatics, music, and the deputation work. Keep up the good work—some day I'll come back and help you! I would enjoy very much hearing from any of you (or all of you) so if you ever get the time and inclination coincidentally, please write. There is a fellow in room seventeen—you know, the one who goes on and on about Shakespeare, Milton, and Browning—who will tell you my address and what kind of cookies I like best. Sincerely,
CLAUDE LEWIS

Miller-Dunagan Disclose Betrothal at Dinner

Announcement of the engagement of Vivian Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Miller of Vancouver, to Cpl. Gerald Dunagan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dunagan of Springbrook, was made at lunch in the dining hall on Thursday, February 8.

The announcement was made in the form of the following poem which was found rolled inside transparent capsules hidden in the desserts:

G.I. issue sure is swell,
But when it includes a man as well
It's bound to lead to joys galore.
It's Gerald and Vivian forever more.

Vivian is a freshman at Pacific this year. Cpl. Dunagan is a former student of P. C.

Newberg Quarterly Mtg. Held at Chehalem Center

Newberg Quarterly meeting was held last week-end at the Chehalem Center Friends church, of which Dorwin Smith is pastor. Carl Miller, pastor at Vancouver, Wash., brought the message Saturday morning.

The regular Christian Endeavor rally in connection with Quarterly meeting was held at Chehalem Center last Friday night. The male quartet from Pacific college was in charge of the service.

Practice Recital Held Last Tuesday Evening

The music department of Pacific college, under the direction of Roy Clark, presented music students in its third practice recital of the year, last Tuesday at 8:15 in Wood-Mar hall.

Maribeth McCracken opened the program by playing "March of the Indian Phantoms" by Kroeger; Don Johnson played "Impromptu" by Strickland; "Arkansas Traveler" (Transcription) by Guion, Colleen Bybee; "The Cat and the Mouse" by Copeland, Paul Thornburg.

Vocal numbers included "On Wings of Song" by Mendelssohn, and "Pierrot's Morning Song" by Cooke, Eileen Tamplin; "The Big Brown Bear" by Mana-Zucca, and "O No, John!" an English folk tune, Eleanor Swanson; "Twilight Hour" and "From the Land of the Sky-Blue Water", by Cadman, Vera Jones; "Peggy", by Cox, Patty Perisho.

Movie Shown in Chapel

An educational film on "Scientific Forestry" was shown in chapel January 29.

The growth, scientific selection, present products and the future possibilities of wood were shown. The importance of forest conservation was stressed.

It costs more to avenge wrongs than to bear them.

FRESHMAN CLASS ELECTS DALE PARRISH PRESIDENT

Dale Parrish was elected president of the freshman class in elections held February 7. Colleen Bybee was named vice-president and Isabel Schroeder, treasurer.

Former president and vice-president, Roger Minthorne and Bernard Landreth, became members of the sophomore class at the close of the first semester.

Gulley Addresses First Chapel This Semester

President Gulley addressed students at chapel the first day of the new semester, February 6, with interesting remarks based upon the question, "Does It Work?"

It was suggested that we ask ourselves this question in relation to our various methods of doing things. He said that one should ask "Does it work?" instead of doing something just because others are doing it, or because we have always done it. Mr. Gulley cited several examples of cases in which this question could be answered in the affirmative.

Students were interested in hearing of the success of George Bales, former student, in his position as minister of the church at Talent, Oregon. Mr. Gulley's opinion is that George's approach does work.

Christian education, and above all, Christianity itself, are examples of things which, according to Mr. Gulley, do work.

"In Article IV, section 8, the point system is mentioned, but nowhere in the constitution is it explained. The faculty recommends that we have a point system, and the committee feels that this should be included in the constitution.

"In section 9 of Article IV, it has been suggested that 'custodian of the A. S. B. constitution' be added to the secretary's duties since there has been much confusion in the past, caused by no one's entering amendments to the constitution in the official copy. "Article V, section 1, there is some feeling that the exact time and sequence of A. S. B. meetings should be more carefully explained.

"In Article V it has seemed to the committee that since the Crescent and L'Ami editors are awarded pins, it should be constitutional for the president and secretary to have them also.

"Article VIII, By Laws—A suggestion has been made that the generalissimo of May Day be permitted to select his own committee and the Cardinal and May Queen be elected more than three weeks before May Day.

"There are other errors of wording, of more or less minor importance to be corrected also.

"Anyone wishing a copy of the constitution to read may secure one from Evalgelyn Shattuck or Orrin Ogier. The committee expects to have a tentative draft of the revised constitution to read at the next regular A. S. B. meeting.

The ladder of life is full of splinters, but they always prick the hardest when we are sliding down.

Needs of Bolivia, Topic of Walter Lee Chapel

Walter P. Lee, pastor of the Friends Church at Star, Idaho, gave an interesting account of his trip to Bolivia in chapel Thursday, February 8.

Describing interesting details, Walter Lee painted a vivid word picture of his airplane trip and several places where he stopped along the way. He described the condition of the Bolivian Indians and their need for Christianity.

His Message offered a definite challenge of the need for more missionaries.

Walter Lee was sent to Bolivia with Joseph Reece by Oregon Yearly Meeting to investigate the Yearly Meeting mission there.
